NFL's Chansi Stuckey Joins Trinity Financial Advisory Board

Wall, NJ: Peter Grandich, founder of Trinity Financial Sports & Entertainment Management Company, Atlantic Avenue, announced today that Chansi Stuckey joined the company's corporate advisory board.

"I first met Chansi when he was with the NY Jets. My heart was broken when they traded him to Cleveland but he and fellow board member Reggie Hodges are serving our Lord there in a powerful way," says Grandich.

Grandich explains that the purpose of Trinity Financial Advisory Board is to provide guidance to the firm's unique niche clientele. Through their own life experiences, faith-filled advisory board members can help guide athletes and entertainers through many of the challenges that celebrity can often bring.

"I am very excited to join a group that has the same ambition as me, to further the kingdom of Jesus Christ," says Stuckey.

ABOUT STUCKEY- After playing college ball at Clemson, Chansi Stuckey was drafted in the seventh round of the 2007 NFL draft by the New York Jets. He had a great year with the Jets in 2008, before being traded to the Cleveland Browns in October 2009. Chansi is currently a wide receiver with the Browns.

Stuckey heads up the Chansi V. Stuckey Foundation to bring his philanthropic work off the field and into people's lives. The foundation's mission is to provide programs and assistance focused on mentoring, education, and youth leadership, as well as develop programs aimed to raise awareness and funds for literacy, low-income families, and healthy decision-making in the community.
